SHOOTING DETAILS BARED

Political Situation Is Still Muddled

LONG FOLLOWERS, WITHOUT LEADER, TO HOLD CAUCUS

Efforts Will Be Made To Gain Peace With Roosevelt

PROBE WILL CONTINUE

Morgenthau Says Politics Will Not Halt Investigation

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Confused lieutenants of the Huey P. Long political organization today shaped plans for a general administration caucus to solidify their ranks and take stock of their situation.

Lacking the strong hand of their dead leader, the caucus plans were indefinite, but informed circles here heard that it would be held, possibly during the present week, and would include in addition to the state officials who were always at Long's right and left hands, the lesser lieutenants who have kept the Long machine running throughout the parishes of Louisiana.

When Long died without naming any one of his following as heir to his unprecedented powers, the toga of leadership technically fell on Gov. O. K. Allen, who announced adoption of the Long tenets and received the hand-shakes of his fellow workers. It was Seymour Weiss, Long organization treasurer, however, who took charge of the elaborate Long funeral and acted as statehouse major-domo in clearing up the mass of detail attendant on the senator's death.

Governor Allen showed evidence of a deep personal loss. When he failed to appear at Long memorial services in Alexandria on Friday, it was explained that he could not come because he had not slept "for nights."

Others Keep Silent

While other Long associates have kept their silence pending some clarification of the future, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, Long's national share-the-wealth organizer, has been decidedly vocal. In statements and radio speeches and at memorial services, he has played on the charge that Long met death as a result of a political plot.

His tactics—typically Long tactics—are being pursued at a time when some in the Long camp are talking of ways and means to make peace with the Roosevelt administration, which Long bitterly castigated.

Heard in the "peace talk" was a proposed truce in the government's federal income tax investigations in Louisiana, which to date have sent one Long associate to prison and brought indictments against eight others.

Politics Not Reason

Commenting at Boston yesterday, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said of the situation in Louisiana: "We don't start any tax cases for political purposes and we don't stop them for the same reason."

A visitor in Washington to look into federal works relief for Louisiana, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, chief opponent of the Long administration, said he "had no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt and the administration will help those who have been friendly to him in Louisiana."

He again denied his trip had political import and said he had "made no effort to see anyone" about the current situation in Louisiana. He said there would be a full ticket in the field against Long organization candidates in the January primaries for United States senate, governor, congressmen and lesser offices.

Walmsley went to Washington to discuss with Sherwood Reeder, secretary of the United States Conference of Mayors, one of Louisiana's new laws making it a felony for a federal official to pay funds in his state for any purpose not in accordance with the tenth federal amendment, respecting state's rights.

The mayor said he did not know what the law meant but that it might stop virtually all expenditures by New Deal agencies in this state.

Lamp Explodes, Orphan Boy Is Fatally Burned

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Obert Wood, 12-year-old orphan of Kendrick, Miss., was dead today from burns he suffered when he kicked over a kerosene lamp, which ignited his bedclothing.

His uncle W. F. Willis, 35, with whom the boy lived, was in a Memphis hospital suffering from first and second degree burns. Young Wood was dead when he arrived at the hospital.

DEATH VICTIM

Suicide or murder? Indications pointed to the former in the mystery surrounding the death of Evelyn Hoey, above, musical comedy actress, found with a gaping bullet wound in her forehead in the Downingtown, Pa., farm home of Henry H. Rogers, Jr., son of the late oil king. Strong support was given the suicide theory by stories of three servants, powder burns around the wound, and the fact that Miss Hoey was semi-hysterical before the tragedy, following a bitter quarrel with Rogers which climaxed a week's revel at the farmhouse. One circumstance cast doubt on the suicide belief—Miss Hoey, beautiful, young, successful, had every reason to want to live.

Crowd Waits When Actors Demand Pay

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. — (AP) — A Brooklyn audience waited thirty minutes for the third act of Aida last night, but finally came in on the backstage drama which caused the delay.

The singers wanted their pay—and got it.

As the curtain fell on the second act, Anna Leskaya stepped from the title to a practical role and demanded payment of her salary from Salfredo Salmaggi, impressario of the Chicago Opera company.

Others of the 165 members of the cast joined in her demand.

Salmaggi insisted there was delay in counting the box office receipts and reminded the actors that 2,500 persons who paid to see them were waiting, and that besides that, they should think of their art.

Former Husband Seeks To Save Woman's Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A former husband was ready to plead today for the life of Nellie Madison, 40, sentenced to death for the slaying of Eric D. Madison, husband No. 4.

William J. F. Brown, the previous mate of the one-time Montana cowgirl, was scheduled to appear before the state supreme court with a petition for a review of the case based on an alleged error of fact.

Mrs. Madison is under sentence to hang October 4 for the fatal shooting March 24, 1934, of Madison, a film studio owner and son of a former Danish senator.

Brown's petition said new facts and testimony had been found.

If the death sentence is carried out Mrs. Madison will be the first woman legally executed in California.

CITIZENSHIP OF GERMANY'S JEWS IS TAKEN AWAY

Semitics Are Relegated To Position Of Middle Ages

USE OF FLAG BARRED

Not Allowed To Employ Help Of Aryans Under 45 Years Old

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The reichstag of Adolf Hitler today relegated Jews in the Germany of the future to their position during the middle ages.

They may not become citizens, intermarry with Aryans, have intimate relations with gentiles nor even employ Aryan servant girls under 45 years of age.

The third reich of the future, by unanimous decision of the 600 Hitler followers who make up the reichstag, will be one in which Aryan citizens who "by their attitude indicate they are willing and fit to serve faithfully the people and the reich" will be separated sharply from "belongers to the state."

Legislation embodying these points was passed last night amid scenes of unexampled patriotic fervor and approbation for the course Hitler has chosen to pursue strictly along the lines laid down in the original Nazi program.

These acts inspired Der Fuehrer's followers with the hope that the rest of the Nazi tenets would be translated into practical politics, step by step, just as fast as political expedience permitted.

Authority Expressed

Before hearing addresses by Hitler and General Wilhelm Goering, the reichstag itself gave a practical ex-

MORE ETHIOPIAN TROOPS ORDERED TOWARD BORDER

France Seeks Pact Guaranteeing Independence Of Austria

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The vanguard of 3,000 additional soldiers, destined to bolster Ethiopia's fighting forces, marched off for the frontier today.

They left the capital, many of their women folks insisting on accompanying them, after 2,000 Ethiopians begged openly for arms yesterday before Emperor Haile Selassie's palace.

The king of kings came to a window for a moment to appease the crowd which engaged in war dances, brandishing weapons and shouted: We want war."

The crowd was led by veterans of the Battle of Aduwa, where an Italian expedition was routed in 1896.

The emperor denied French authorities permission to bring in colonial troops to protect the headquarters and

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN IN OUACHITA

Indications Are That Enrollment Will Show Increase

The parish and city schools opened for the fall term Monday morning with registrations that were said to give indications of new high records. Neither T. O. Brown, superintendent of the parish system, nor E. L. Neville, superintendent of city schools, was able to give definite reports of the enrollments Monday, as they are awaiting figures from teachers of the various grades in many different schools.

The parish schools were enabled to care for an enlarged enrollment by additional rooms erected at Lenwil, Ransom and Millsaps schools and the Ouachita parish high school.

Five classrooms and a large study hall have been arranged in the former Peters Furniture store adjoining the parish high school. Later, a gymnasium will be established here, as is now required by state statute.

The five grammar schools and Neville High school, of the city school system, were made ready for the opening some days ago, many details being given attention to facilitate opening.

Pupils of the parish and city schools were enrolled in their respective rooms Monday morning and text books assigned. They were then dismissed for the day to await resumption of their studies on Tuesday morning.

YOUTH IS KILLED IN BUS ACCIDENT

School Vehicle Overturns On Gravel Road With 60 Children Aboard

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 16.—(Special)—Robert Ogden, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ogden, of Fort Necessity, was fatally injured about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, when a school bus in which he was riding with 60 other school children, skidded in loose gravel and turned over. All the other occupants of the bus escaped serious injury.

The youth suffered a fractured skull, a crushed chest and a fractured leg and pelvis bone. He died several hours later in a local hospital.

The accident occurred on the Fort Necessity road, about two miles south of Winnsboro, while the bus was en route to a Winnsboro school. The driver of the bus was G. W. Carter.

According to the driver, he lost control of the bus when it skidded in the gravel and it careened to the side of the road and turned over on its side.

Other children sustained minor bruises and were transferred to another bus and transported to school. The Ogden youth was rushed to the hospital by a passing motorist.

TRAIN ACCIDENT TOLL MOUNTS AS GRIGGS EXPIRES

Calhoun Youth Fatally Injured In Illinois Central Freight Wreck

The toll of the derailment of an eastbound Illinois Central freight train early Saturday morning in West Monroe mounted with the death at 7:50 p.m. Sunday night of Arnold "Pete" Griggs, 23, of Calhoun, at St. Francis sanitarium.

It was necessary to amputate Griggs right leg at the scene of the accident Saturday night, after rescue workers toiled in vain to lift a massive iron beam off the crushed limb.

Attending physicians and hospital attendants despaired of his life from the beginning, saying that the shock and great loss of blood was too much for his constitution.

Six Others Improve

Six others injured in the wreck were reported as improved at the sanitarium Monday.

Griggs is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Griggs, who reside six miles east of Calhoun; five sisters, Mrs. N. L. Slocum of West Monroe, Mrs. L. E. King of Borger, Texas, and Misses Jettie, Johnnie Ruth and Helen Griggs of Calhoun; and three brothers, Arthur Griggs of Borger, Texas, and Byron and George Griggs of Calhoun.

Funeral services were held at Aulds chapel, near Calhoun, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, with the Rev.

SOME OF RACING BALLOONS SEEN

Weather Reports Sent To Craft But No Answers Received

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Several of the 13 balloons drifting east by northeast in the twenty-third Gordon Bennett international balloon race were reported sighted in eastern Poland today, but were not identified.

Two balloons, one white and one dark, were sighted near Dialowice, 250 miles east of Warsaw near the Rumanian border. Two others drifted across the station at Getiorna, at the same distance from Warsaw.

A white balloon, assumed to be Polish, crossed Limica in the same vicinity. Three were sighted near Baranowice, about 220 miles east of Warsaw.

A Polish radio station gave the balloons weather reports throughout the night, but received no answers. A steady west wind of about 20 miles per hour prevailed.

WAGE AND HOUR COAL AGREEMENT IS BEING SOUGHT

Miners and Operators Undertake New Negotiations For Pact

TO TEST GUFFEY ACT

Another Extension, For One Week, Is Granted By John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Soft coal operators and miners undertook new negotiations today in an effort to reach an agreement on wages and hours and avert a strike in the industry.

At the same time James W. Carter, president of the Carter Coal company, confronted the administration with its first court test on the Guffey coal act. Counsel for the West Virginia mine operator and the government were directed to appear today in the District of Columbia supreme court and show cause why the government should not be enjoined from collecting the enforcement taxes imposed in the Guffey law.

Little progress was being made in the wage negotiations. The present scale would have expired last midnight, but another extension—the fifth to be made—was granted for one week by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers.

At the agriculture department final hearings were opened on Secretary Wallace's complaint against ten major meat packing concerns charging that they combined to control retail meat prices from 1927 to 1933. If Wallace finds them guilty of monopoly, the companies can carry their fight to the courts.

Incidentally, one of the AAA's crop control programs—that for potatoes—came in for criticism today with the American Liberty league calling it "another step toward socialism."

The league said it was leading to "methods of restriction of the private lives and business activities of our

FIGHT OF MOONEY NEARING CLIMAX

Noted Convict Will Testify In Attempt To Gain Freedom

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Thomas J. Mooney prepared for his second trip out of grim San Quentin penitentiary in his nearly 20 years' imprisonment today as a new climax neared his long battle for freedom.

Mooney, convicted of the 1916 preparedness day bombing, will be brought here for habeas corpus hearing ordered by the California supreme court.

In 1932, the convict appeared here at a "trial" on an unused indictment growing out of the bombing, which resulted in a directed verdict for acquittal but failed to change his status as a prisoner.

A. E. Shaw, veteran San Francisco attorney who never has been connected with Mooney's case, has been instructed to take testimony on these issues:

1. Whether any witnesses who testified against Mooney committed perjury.

2. Whether, if perjury was committed, the prosecuting attorney or any of his associates were aware of it.

3. Whether the prosecution "willfully, knowingly, or at all" concealed or suppressed evidence that would have been favorable to Mooney.

The hearing is expected to occupy three or more weeks.

Two Postal Clerks Are Badly Hurt In Crash

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Arthur Hahn, 36, and Charles Halstead, postal clerks of Mobile, Ala., suffered probable fractured skulls when the automobile in which they were riding collided with that of C. C. Parsley of Pascagoula, near Ocean Springs late yesterday.

Parsley was badly cut and bruised and his wife and nine-month-old child and J. T. Jernigan, also of Pascagoula, who were riding with him each suffered injuries described as serious.

Hahn and Halstead were en route from Poplarville.

JAP DELEGATION IS RECEIVED AT V. F. W. MEETING

Group Comes To Foster Friendly Relations Between Nations

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Greeting a delegation of Japanese exservice men who crossed the Pacific to extend their friendship, the Veterans of Foreign wars settled down today to the business of their 36th annual encampment, which gives a large share of its program to world peace.

The Japanese delegation, headed by Admiral Isami Takeshita, a former naval attache of the Japanese embassy at Washington, and one-time jiujitsu "sparring partner" of the late Theodore Roosevelt, represents 3,000,000 Nipponese war veterans, and comes here, Admiral Takeshita said, "to foster friendly relations between Japan and the United States."

One of the principal speakers on the opening day's program was United

PARENTS CLAIM SINGER'S BODY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hoey Take Slain Girl Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The grief-stricken parents of Evleyn Hoey, blond singer of torch songs, who was found shot to death at the Pennsylvania farm home of Henry H. Rogers, 3rd, left today for Downingtown, Pa., to take the body of their daughter back to their St. Louis, Mo., home for burial.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hoey, said they would go west immediately and would not stay over to attend the inquest which is scheduled for Thursday. They were accompanied by their son, Erroll, who arrived here by plane from Minneapolis, Minn., last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoey, who showed signs of the strain caused by their daughter's tragic death, were under the care of a physician over the week-end.

Young Rogers, son of the late Standard Oil magnate, remained in seclusion at the home of Pennsylvania friends. His companion, William J. Kelly, with whom he is released in $2,500 bail to guarantee their presence at the inquest, was reported to have gone to Fire Island, N. Y.

Both Rogers and Kelly were in the farmhouse at the time Miss Hoey was shot to death. Police officials who investigated the case have said that all evidence "points toward suicide."

FOURNET STATES LONG GAVE CRY AS SHOT FIRED

Justice Tells Of Attempting To Ward Off Weiss' Attack

MANY WITNESSES TALK

Smith Excused After Calling District Attorney 'Death Plotter'

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The coroner's jury today held that Dr. Carl A. Weiss, slayer of Senator Huey P. Long, came to his death from pistol wounds in the head, chest and abdomen.

In announcing the verdict, Dr. Thomas B. Bird, said: "He came to his death as the result of pistol wounds of the head, chest and abdomen (homicidal). That's all."

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16—(AP)—The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, organizer of Senator Huey P. Long's share-our wealth clubs, branded District Attorney John Fred Odom of East Baton Rouge parish a "murder plotter" at the inquest into the shooting on Sunday night of last week and declined to answer questions.

"I want to say I respect your court," said Mr. Smith as he took the stand, "but I want to say that this district attorney has been named as a 'murder plot conspirator.' I refuse to respect him. I refuse to be questioned.

"When a man who has not shared in the conspiracies asks the questions, I will answer them.

"I worshipped my hero."

Applause sounded loudly in the packed courtroom.

District Attorney Odom rose.

"I care nothing for his opinion of me or of my acts," Odom said. "His charge is malicious and a deliberate lie."

More applause sounded in the crowded room.

Mr. Smith was then excused from the witness stand.

Mr. Smith was preceded on the witness stand by Supreme Court Justice John B. Fournet, who testified that Dr. Weiss advanced on Senator Long and shot him without uttering a word or giving any warning.

Fournet made the statement in answer to cross-interrogation by Attorney-General Gaston L. Porterie.

Appears Voluntarily

Fournet, appearing voluntarily at the inquest at the request of District Attorney John Fred Odom, gave a graphic eye-witness account of the actual shooting.

Dr. W. A. Cook, of Baton Rouge, one of the physicians who attended Senator Long in the hospital following the shooting, the third witness, testified that Long had an abrasion of the mouth at the hospital.

"Was it bleeding?" Mr. Odom asked.

"It was not bleeding until Dr. Henry McKowen pressed it with antiseptic," he answered. "It appeared to be a fresh abrasion."

"Of course you have no way of knowing how it caused?"

"No."

Addressing Dr. Cook, Porterie said: "A person having been shot as Senator Long was and making his way down four winding flights of stairs could have suffered an injury of that sort by striking a ledge of marble?"

"Any contact with a hard surface

School Opening Still Held Back By Dispute

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—All was quiet at Central school in the tenth ward of East Baton Rouge parish this morning, but school did not open as elsewhere throughout the parish, due to the inability of the teachers to find the keys to the office and the book store room.

Henry Hooper, formerly principal at Mt. Hermon high school in St. Helena parish, who was added as a teacher at the Istrouma school when E. S. Samuels, principal of the Central school, and a number of others not acceptable to the local leaders in the Long political organization were dropped, appeared at Central this morning.

A. R. Cain, assistant principal, who was elected principal, had declined to take the office and on registration day last Friday there was no one at the school with the keys.

Today Mr. Hooper appeared with the keys for the main building. The names of the pupils who came were taken down but registration was delayed until tomorrow.

SOCIETY

EVE C. BRADFORD, Society Editor
Office Phone 4800. Res. Phone 1404

It was a requiem and a summons that school bells rang out Monday morning, when hundreds of children, regretting a little the waning of summer, answered the annual call. September never came that didn't bring with it this occasion for conflicting emotions. After the first day, however, enthusiasm mounts high and the battle for supremacy spurs every child on. Few indeed are the children who dislike school once they have left summer and playtime behind.

After Monday, the wheels of learning in all the Monroe schools will be rolling under full power. The annual college migration will also reach its peak this week.

The first meeting of the new year of the Welcome Branch Book club was held at the Y. W. C. A., with Mrs. George V. Lofton presiding. The following chairmen were appointed: Mrs. C. H. Dunaway, poetry; Mrs. Paul Neal, art; Mrs. L. V. Tarver, short story; Mrs. D. M. Moore, drama.

ENTHUSIASTIC GOLFER

Mrs. W. H. Roemer is one of Monroe's most enthusiastic golfers. She can be seen almost daily on the links at Lakeside Country club. Mrs. Roemer figured prominently in last season's tournaments and claimed several trophies.

When school starts, the school lunch problem again becomes an ever present food problem to mothers. Lunch box menus necessitate a special study in the service of cold foods in appetizing form. Sandwiches are almost inevitable in one form or another, but milk, vegetables and fruits should be included also to give balance and variety.

Juicy fruits, apples, grapes and oranges are welcomed by the young, for they are refreshing, and stimulate appetite. In addition, they provide vitamin C, especially important in the child's diet.

Here are some suggestions for sandwich fillings:

Orange juice (1 part) and peanut butter (2 parts), add a little sugar and salt to taste. Beat until creamy.

Grape juice or orange juice (1 part) and cream cheese (2 parts), beat until creamy.

Ground dates, raisins, figs and nuts (equal parts), moisten with grape juice to make a paste.

Lemon juice (1 tablespoon) and butter (1-2 pound), cream together, add to meat, egg and fish fillings for sandwiches.

Grape marmalade and cream or cottage cheese, spread one slice with marmalade, one with cheese. This is especially good on Boston brown bread.

A growing child should have one egg and one quart of milk a day, fresh or stewed fruit, bread and two vegetables, to insure good health.

Members of the Dixie Welfare club were delightfully entertained on board the Victor Sackett house boat last week. Following the brief session, presided over by the president, Mrs. F. K. Carkuff, delectable refreshments were served, buffet style.

Members enjoying this delightful outing were: Mrs. F. K. Carkuff, Mrs. Ethel Hilton, Miss Eva Downes, Miss Nora Downes, Mrs. Henry Haas, Mrs. D. L. Cromwell, Mrs. Emma Rosenbaum, Mrs. Blanche Parsons, Miss Jean Parsons, Miss May Gardner, Mrs. Anna Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Goza, Mrs. F. K. Hamm, Mrs. Mary Castles and the hosts of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sackett.

If you would like to see the much loved Will Rogers in the sort of role that helped to make him known and loved throughout the country, visit the Paramount theater today, where his last picture is being shown. "Steamboat Round The Bend" will bring him back to you as most of us prefer to remember him.

In his last film, he is the same old Will—homely, wrinkled face, shock of wiry hair, keen eyes and gentle drawling voice. Those who saw "Steamboat Round The Bend" will always carry with them a mental picture of this beloved man, sitting in the stern of his boat, drifting down the Mississippi in the glow of the setting sun.

The Winnsboro Parent-Teacher executive council met at the home of the president, Mrs. Allen Price, for the purpose of completing plans for the various projects of the year. Fourteen officers and committee chairmen were present and displayed considerable enthusiasm over the plans formulated at this time. A social hour was enjoyed later and delicious refreshments served.

Miss Marjorie Hahn of Paris, Texas, the attractive sister of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hahn, will spend the winter months in Monroe, attending Northeast Center of Louisiana State university.

AT THE MOVIES

AT THE PARAMOUNT—For the new Will Rogers' picture, "Steamboat Round the Bend," now playing at the Paramount theater, Fox Film has again brought together the star, authors, producer and director of the Rogers' hit, Judge Priest," to produce another rousing story of the southland.

"Steamboat Round the Bend," adapted from Ben Lucien Burman's novel, is a drama-filled, down to earth story of life along the Mississippi in the roaring 1880's, the most colorful period in the great river's history.

The picture is the story of a couple of steamboating rivals, Will Rogers and Irvin Cobb, their hilarious rivalry and their great life-and-death race which brings the story to its spectacular climax.

Most of the humor and drama of "Steamboat Round the Bend" arises from Will Rogers' efforts to set right the lives of a pair of youngsters who are in love.

The lovers are played by Anne Shirley and John McGuire. McGuire, who plays Rogers' nephew, kills a man in a quarrel over the girl. At Rogers' urging, he stands trial and is sentenced to be hung.

At first Rogers is inclined to blame the girl for his nephew's plight, but their common interest draws them together. They join in a valiant attempt to get the money that will free McGuire, meet hilarious adventures and hardships. And finally, in the most spectacular and rousing race the screen has ever staged, they save the boy from the noose.

Stepin Fetchit, the sepia, slow-motion star, Eugene Pallette and Berton Churchill are prominent in the supporting cast of "Steamboat Round the Bend."

AT THE CAPITOL—A newcomer to the ranks of western films is Clarence E. Mulford's "Hopalong Cassidy," Paramount release, with William Boyd, Jimmy Ellison and Paula Stone in the leading roles playing today at the Capitol theater.

While the Mulford stories are new to the screen, "Hopalong Cassidy" is familiar to thousands who have read of his exploits in the many books written by the author over the past 20 years. Acclaimed as one of the "Old West's" most authentic writers, Mulford's stories deal with the early days when the west was young and there were such characters as "Hopalong" who, just as he, fought for what he thought was right, even if he had to prove it with his "six-gun."

Boyd and Ellison are cast in the roles of "Hopalong" and "Johnny Nelson" respectively, with Frank McGlynn, Jr., as "Red Connors," Paula Stone as "Mary Meeker," and others including Kenneth Thomson, George Hayes, Robert Warwick, Charles Middleton. Howard Bretherton directed.

TWO MISSISSIPPI SHOOTINGS AIRED

Bloodhounds Aid Officers In Hunting Attorney's Attacker

PURVIS, Miss., Sept. 16.—(AP)—While bloodhounds aided officers today in their attempt to find clues as to the cause in the serious wounding from ambush of T. L. Williamson, attorney, three persons charged in connection with wounding a couple in another shooting attack were scheduled to be tried at a preliminary hearing.

Both shootings occurred Saturday night.

Williamson, for 12 years superintendent of Lamar county schools, was in a serious condition in a Lumberton hospital, where he was brought by M. L. Holcombe, Jr., shortly after the shooting.

Holcombe, who was seated in an automobile with Williamson, said he heard a noise which he thought was a blowout but that, when he turned to ask Williamson about it, he found his companion was shot. At the hospital it was said Williamson was suffering from a birdshot wound in the neck.

In the other shooting Alex Dodson suffered wounds to his face, and his wife was struck on the head as the couple were returning from a church service. They were not seriously injured.

Officers arrested men booked as Martin Bounds and his sons, Earl and Ernest Bounds, neighbors of the Dodson's, when a shotgun which had been recently fired was found in the Bounds home.

The Bounds men were released on bond but were due at a preliminary hearing this morning.

FOURNET STATES LONG GAVE CRY AS SHOT FIRED

could have caused it," Dr. Cook answered.

McGehee Next Witness

Dr. J. Webb McGehee was called as the next witness and as McGehee took the stand, Porterie asked if Dr. McGehee was an attending physician and Odom answered in the negative.

"Speaking in an advisory capacity, do you think this testimony by a physician who was not in attendance is revelant?" Mr. Porterie asked.

"I am going to show something else," Mr. Odom said.

"Doctor, did you have an appointment with Dr. Weiss to administer an anesthetic Monday a week ago?" Mr. Odom asked of Dr. McGehee.

"Dr. Weiss rang my house about 8:15 p.m. Sunday and wanted to know if I knew that the operation had been changed from Our Lady of the Lake sanitarium to the Baton Rouge General hospital. I told him I did." And he stepped from the stand.

District Attorney C. Sidney Fredericks of Washington-St. Tammany judicial district, was then questioned by Odom.

Q. Were you in the capitol at the time of the shooting.

A. I was.

Q. Where were you in the capitol at the time of the shooting?

A. I was leaving the governor's office and had taken two steps when I heard the first shot. It was followed by a second shot and then a fusillade. I looked out the door just a moment. I saw a number of men down the corridor in some confusion and I withdrew.

Q. Did you see the shooting?

A. No. I can't say I saw any particular person fire any particular shot.

Odom attempted to learn from Fredericks whether he saw anyone fire any shot and Fredericks said it would be difficult since it happened so rapidly and he was not sure of identities.

Recognized Roden

Fredericks said that later he recognized Murphy Roden and Elliot Coleman as two of the men who were around Senator Long. Mr. Odom continued the questioning.

Q. Did you see any revolvers in their hands?

A. I would say that I saw Coleman with ... Roden did have a gun.

Q. ... him fire?

A. ... dn't ...

Q. Did you see the body before firing ceased?

A. Yes, I was one of the first to reach it.

Q. Where was it?

A. It was lying in the corridor by the side of a large marble pillar.

Q. When you first saw the body, was it down?

A. I couldn't say positively.

Q. After the body was on the floor, did you see anybody fire?

A. I will answer it like this: There were shots fired after the body was on the floor.

Fredericks said he had been standing in another corridor and had been peeping around it watching the shooting.

He said the first two shots were fired quickly, but there was a brief lapse of time between the second and third shots.

J. T. Cockerham of Denham Springs was the next witness.

He said he heard the shooting as he stood in Memorial hall around the corner from the scene of the shooting.

He said there was little time between the first and second shots and he "didn't think there was much between the second and third shots."

Lapse Between Shots

Cooper Jean of Baker, the next witness, said he stood at the entrance to the capitol and heard the shot, noticing there was a lapse of time between the second and third shots.

Mrs. L. V. Leggio was called, but did not answer to her name.

Ed Sharp said he was in the front entrance of the capitol and heard "two shots come ahead of the others, and a volley after the second shot," he said. "Somebody said it was firecrackers," he said, but that he did not see any of the shooting because his daughter pulled him outside.

Carl Straughn was next questioned by Odom.

Q. Where were you in the state capitol on the night of the shooting?

A. About five steps from where you go into the end of the hall.

Q. In the house lobby?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go out into the hall.

A. I was headed that way and stopped.

Q. You did see the shooting?

A. No. I later walked down the hall and saw a man in a white suit lying on the floor. I got within 15 feet of the man on the floor and then they made us go out of the corridor.

Q. Did anybody have guns?

A. Yes.

Q. Who had guns?

A. I couldn't say. I don't know them personally or by sight.

Q. What sort of guns?

A. Policemen pistols—six shooters, not automatics.

Q. How many men had guns?

A. Four or five.

Q. Could you give an idea how many shots were fired?

A. A couple and then 25 or 30. That is my estimate.

Representative C. A. Riddle of Avoyelles parish, the next witness was then questioned by Odom.

Q. You were in the capitol at the time of the shooting?

A. I was.

Q. Did you see the shooting?

A. I think I did. When the house adjourned I turned out the right door into the east end of the governor's corridor. I noticed Senator Long come out what seemed to be the door of the office of the secretary to the governor and come up the corridor facing me. He stopped about six feet from a set-back column about the center of a marble square. I thought that was a good time to invite him to speak at a barbecue we were planning to hold in Marksville. When I was five or six feet away from him a gun popped. There was a young fellow with a pistol pointed at Senator Long. I saw several inches of the barrel, which was very bright. Some one grabbed him and then it sounded like some one setting off a string of firecrackers.

Q. did the man who fired the shot come between you and Senator Long?

A. No. He came more diagonally.

Q. Did you hear any conversation or any remarks between this man and Senator Long?

A. None, whatever.

Q. Did you recognize who did the general firing?

A. No, I didn't look at them. I thought it was bandits and racketeers.

Q. Did you see this man put his hands on Senator Long?

A. No, he just came forward with a gun.

Q. Did you see Senator Long put his hands on him.

A. No.

Mrs. Kennedy Excused

Mrs. O. P. Kennedy said she knew nothing of the shooting and was excused.

Gordan Latham said he heard two shots right together, a little lull, and then a whole volley. He said he saw Joe Messina, one of the late senator's bodyguards, come running around front and get into an elevator.

Dr. C. A. Weiss, father of Dr. Carl Austin Weiss, described his son's actions during the day of the shooting. He said his son visited him early Sunday morning, that he and his wife went to church and returned.

He said his son later brought in a bouquet in honor of the "anniversary" of the birth of their son which was three months old that day. The flowers, he said, had been given him by a local florist. The younger Weiss, his wife and their child, left for their own home, he said, later returning to have dinner at his house.

"He ate heartily and joked during the meal," said Dr. Weiss, and afterwards asked if I wanted to go to my camp on the Amite river. I told him I did."

He said he and his wife, young Weiss and his wife and their child went to the camp and spent the afternoon and that his son and his family returned to their home about 7:30 p.m. He said that at about 9:50 a.m. Mrs. Weiss telephoned him and asked if he knew where her husband was and he told her he had gone to make a call.

"Did your son usually carry a pistol out at night?" asked Odom.

"Occasionally, he did," Dr. Weiss replied.

Intruders In Garage

"Do you know the reason?" he was asked.

"Recently, there were intruders in our garage," he answered.

Dr. Weiss said his son was 29 years old and of slight build, weighing about 132 pounds. He said his son was a graduate of the Baton Rouge high school, had attended the pre-medical school at the Louisiana State university, graduated in medicine from Tulane university at the age of 21, served as interne at Touro infirmary in New Orleans for two years, worked in the American hospital in Paris, did work under specialists in Vienna, was an interne for two years at Bellevue hospital in New York and then became associated with him in Baton Rouge as an ear, nose and throat specialist.

Murphy Roden, one of Long's bodyguards, was then questioned after the district attorney had told him that he did not have to tesify if he did not wish to because he was a participant.

"I have no objections to testifying," said Roden.

The witness said he was from Arcadia in Bienville parish and as an employe of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation had been assigned to guard Senator Long on January 15.

"In Washington, also?" asked Odom.

"Yes," Roden replied. "I had a commission from the metropolitan police department in Washington."

Right Behind Long

Roden said Long had walked out of the hall of the house of representatives last Sunday night and headed toward the governor's office.

"I was right behind him," he said. "The senator went into the governor's office. I stopped at the door. He was inside only a second when he walked out. As he started along the corridor, some one brushed by me, pulled a gun and stuck it in Senator Long's stomach and fired. I put my left hand over the gun and we struggled and fell to the floor and came up again. My eyes were full of smoke and my hands and face were powder burned.

"At first I thought it was a free for all and I knew that I had the man who had shot the senator. I jerked loose, pulled my gun.

"You could not wrest the gun from him?" asked Odom.

"No."

"Did he say anything?"

"No."

"Did Senator Long say anything?"

Long Gave Cry

"He kind of let out a yell when the bullet hit him."

Roden said that Weiss, after firing at Long, had tried to shoot him. He said he broke away from Weiss and pulled his own gun and fired.

"How far away were you?" asked Odom.

"Right on him," Roden replied.

"How many times did you shoot?"

"Ten times."

"Did all the bullets hit him?"

"I don't know."

"Why did you shoot him?"

"I shot him to keep from being shot."

"Why didn't you continue your efforts to get the gun?"

"I knew I couldn't."

"How old are you."

"Thirty."

"What do you weigh."

"About 150 pounds."

"What is your height?"

"Five feet, seven and one-half inches."

"Were any shots fired after you finished firing?"

"I don't know. It stopped all about the same time. The whole thing was not more than six seconds.

"Were any machine guns used?"

"No, sir."

Weiss Fired Once

"How many times did Dr. Weiss fire?"

"I am of the opinion he fired only one shot."

Louis Lesage said he was standing in the hall, but didn't see the shooting.

E. D. Cole of Tensas parish, the next witness, said he had been an employe of the identification bureau since November 15, 1934, had been assigned by General Louis F. Guerre to the capitol to "keep down any disturbance or lawnessness." He said he followed Long as he left the house and walked along with him and saw Long go in the governor's office and come out when Dr. Weiss shot him.

He said he (Cole) struck Dr. Weiss in the face and that Weiss staggered back and bumped into a column. He said he heard Long yell, "I'm shot."

"Can you say who fired the second shot?" asked Odom.

"No, sir," he replied.

"Was there any delay in the firing?"

"It was all together and then over," he said.

Joe Messina, a personal bodyguard of Senator Long, was so overcome with emotion when he took the stand that he had to exert great effort to talk coherently.

Investigation Is Thrown Into Furore

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Testimony that Senator Huey P. Long's mouth bore a fresh cut when he reached the hospital with a pistol wound in his side the night Dr. Carl A. Weiss was shot in the statehouse as his slayer, threw the coroner's investigation into a furore and led to many conjectures over what happened the night of the tragedy.

Dr. W. A. Cook, of Baton Rouge, one of the physicians who attended the senator, said it looked like a fresh abrasion, but it was not bleeding. He said he did not know what caused it.

On cross-examination by Attorney General Gaston L. Porterie, Dr. Cook said it could have been caused by any contact with a hard surface. The attorney general advanced the opinion the senator had bruised his mouth when he stumbled down the stairs.

Dr. Cook's testimony came after the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer of the "share-the-wealth" societies, had dramatically charged that District Attorney John Fred Odom, representing the state at the investigation, was a plotter against the life of Senator Long and that he would not be questioned by him.

The district attorney leaped to his feet and in a modulated tone said:

"Anybody who says I was in any plot to kill Senator Long is a wilful, malicious and deliberate liar."

The Rev. Smith walked to the rostrum just after Judge John B. Fournet, of the state supreme court, had finished his testimony. With arms outstretched he shouted to the coroner:

Worshipped His Hero

"I want to say I respect your court, but I also want to say that this district attorney has been named as a "murder plot conspirator and I refuse to respect him and to be questioned by him. He plotted to kill the man I loved. I worshipped my hero."

With his eyes blazing and his arms flailing the air, the Rev. Mr. Smith walked down from the rostrum and passed within a foot of District Attorney Odom who glowered at him.

The room held a half dozen of former bodyguards of Huey Long, who rose to their feet, but the district attorney's agents also were there in number and they rose also.

Slowly the district attorney rose to his feet and in a voice hard to control said:

"I care nothing for his opinion of me or of my acts," said he. "But if he or anybody else says I engaged in any plot to kill Senator Huey Long he is a wilful, malicious and vicious liar."

Attorney Laughs

Then the district attorney laughed and called the next witness and the tension was broken.

Judge Fournet, the first witness called, said he was within two feet of Senator Long, who had just walked out of the governor's office in the crowded corridor when a small man, later identified as Dr. Weiss, shoved through the rear and wedged in with a pistol in his hand.

He raised it from his right hip, the judge said, and he grabbed his arm. At the same instant the man fired and Senator Long made an outcry.

"The usual outcry that a man would make if he had been shot," he explained.

I started to grab the man again and then Murphy Roden, bodyguard, grabbed Dr. Weiss' pistol and held on to it. The judge said he pushed the doctor and Roden fell to the floor.

"Dr. Weiss stood in a crouched position trying to fire his pistol that would not shoot," the judge said. He appeared to be trying to shoot Roden who was on the floor. I saw Roden pull his pistol but before he could fire general pistol shooting opened from the left and right from behind him as the other bodyguards came up."

He said he and Senator Long both thought Dr. Weiss had fired two shots, but he was not certain whether it was one or two.

He said Senator Long thanked him as he lay on the operating table for saving him from the second shot.

He said Dr. Weiss did not say a word to Senator Long and Senator Long did not say anything to him before Dr. Weiss shot.

Ran After Long

Judge Fournet said he ran after Senator Long and found him being carried away to the hospital by James O'Connor, Jr., and some other man.

After the shooting, the judge said Senator Long went off alone. Before the shooting, he said, the senator had walked rapidly out of the house chamber into Governor Allen's office with his bodyguards rushing in a vain effort to keep up with him. He had just walked out of the governor's office into the corridor when Dr. Weiss came up, he said.

The shooting, Judge Fournet said, was automatic pistol fire, with probably a single shooter mixed in, and the fire wounded like machine gun but no machine guns were used. He said it was continuous fire until it stopped suddenly.

When the first bullet struck Dr. Weiss, Judge Fournet said, his body quivered and then rolled over easily on the floor. He estimated from 40 to 50 shots were fired.

As the witnesses testified, Dr. C. A. Weiss, father of the physician who killed Senator Long, looked on intently from a doorway. Nearby stood ex-Governor John M. Parker, bitter political opponent of Senator Long. A few feet away sat Joe Messina, Long's leading bodyguard, and across the room sat Murphy Roden, the bodyguard who grappled with the slayer.

It was a strange mixture of Longs and anti-Longs, who looked on mutely with fierce eyes and eager ears.

When Joe Messina, Long's favorite bodyguard, took the stand he broke down and wept.

"In a cowardly way, Senator Long was shot—" he said. He could go no further for several minutes.

Then he said:

"When Weiss fired the shot I knew he (Long) was killed. I ran up and unloaded my gun into Weiss. I ran up and shot the man who had shot Senator Long."

Long's Bodyguards Appear At Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Bodyguards of the late Senator Huey P. Long, state officials, including Supreme Court Justice John B. Fournet and others appeared today in response to requests of District Attorney John Fred Odom at an inquest into the slaying of Dr. Carl Austin Weiss, who was mowed down with bodyguard bullets just after Senator Long had been fatally wounded last Sunday night.

The bodyguards, state officials and other witnesses arrived at 10 a.m. in the East Baton Rouge parish district court room which was packed and jammed with spectators for the inquest.

Attorney-General Gaston L. Porterie arrived a few minutes before the opening of the inquiry. When asked whether he was there to represent the state in any way, he answered:

"I am merely here as a looker on."

The opening of the inquest was delayed, but the inquiry was expected to begin momentarily.

Among the bodyguards present in the courtroom were: Joe Messina, Louis Heard, Paul Voitier, Murphy Roden and a number of others. General Louis F. Guerre, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification, and Joe Bates, an assistant, were among those in the group.

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer of the late Senator Long's share-our-wealth clubs, was also present, as well as practically all East Baton Rouge parish officials.

Fournet First Witness

Justice Fournet was the first witness.

"Were you present at the capitol last Sunday night about 9:20 o'clock," asked District Attorney John Fred Odom.

"Yes, sir," he answered.

"Did you witness the shooting as a result of which Carl Austin Weiss and Senator Long lost their lives?" he was asked.

"I did."

"State in your own words what you saw," the district attorney asked.

Mr. Fournet answered:

"Well I was in the house when Huey was in the house. I was trying to talk to him and when he left I started out behind him. As is usual he walked very fast. As I entered the corridor there were a couple of people there and I asked them where he went. They told me he went into the governor's office. I walked leisurely toward the office and met Joe Messina (one of Long's bodyguards). The senator walked out toward us. About the time he reached the big circle in the middle of the corridor facing in the direction of the house of representatives (east) he made some sort of statement about getting everybody on hand early the next day, Somebody told him that had been attended to.

Small Man Rushed In

"About that time there was a little pause and a small man or a slender man in a white suit flashed right amongst us, wedged in, pulled a gun and shot. I immediately put my hand on the man's arm to deflect the gun almost simultaneously as the man shot. There was quite a bit of confusion. I shoved him hard and some one else grabbed him. He fell to the floor. There was a continual movement. The doctor did not go all the way to the floor but fell in a crouching position trying to fire the gun again.

"I since learned that Murphy Roden (a bodyguard) grabbed him. I made an effort to grab Weiss again and was almost over him when they shot him. The shooting kept on without any cessation. I started to look for the senator and went down stairs and found him in the arms of O'Connor (James O'Connor, public service commission), and some other man and he said he was shot.

"I asked him where he wanted to go and he said, 'to the sanitarium, of course.' We put him in a car and took him to the hospital."

Long Death Guarded By Wall Of Silence

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—East Baton Rouge parish authorities sought today to break the injunction of silence respecting his fatal shooting which a dying Huey P. Long laid upon his followers.

"No statements by anybody," the dictator said with accustomed authority to his lieutenants as he was wheeled into an operating room of Our Lady of the Lake sanitarium here last Sunday night after he had been shot in the state house by Dr. Carl Austin Weiss, Jr.

Weiss was instantly mowed down by Long's bodyguards, his face and right arm shot to pieces, his body filled with scores of steel slugs. Within 31 hours, Long had followed him to death.

Three times unsuccessful in obtaining attendance of the bodyguards, the only persons definitely known to have been present from start to finish of the shooting, a coroner's inquest was resumed today in an effort to reach a verdict on Weiss' death.

A separate inquest last week found Senator Long died of an abdominal wound inflicted by a .32 caliber pistol—same caliber as the weapon known to have been carried by Dr. Weiss.

By piece-meal, what happened when Senator Long, Dr. Weiss and the bodyguards met in the state house corridor, has been put together after a fashion, but to date the bodyguards and others believed to have been nearby have the command: "No statements by anybody."

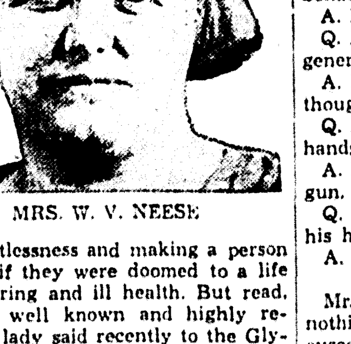

District Attorney John Fred Odom said he had yet to hear a reconstruction of the shooting from a witness

After eating the simplest of foods I would bloat, the gas pressing against my heart until I thought I had heart trouble. I could hardly get my breath at times and these smothering spells made me so nervous. My kidneys caused my back to ache constantly and I got but little unbroken sleep. I was always tired and worn-out, lost my energy and it was difficult for me to do my work feeling as I did. I was growing worse every day and did not know where to turn next as so many medicines had failed to help me—when finally I realized so many people were receiving such great benefit from Gly-Cas' use and I decided to put it to a REAL TEST on my own case."

"I wouldn't take anything for the amazing results Gly-Cas has given me," continued Mrs. Neese, "My bowels were regulated almost at once and in a most natural way, soon I was able to eat foods I dared not touch before. My kidneys were regulated and I now eat and sleep fine, my former energy has been restored and I can easily carry on with my work. All the poisons have been eliminated from my system and I am feeling so well again I must say Gly-Cas has given me a NEW LEASE on life. This new remedy is a blessing to all sufferers and they should realize it and profit by it."

The School Bell Calls

The schoolboy, on the first day of school, was traditionally supposed to answer the command of the bell with tardy and reluctant feet. He was considered to groan as he thought of nine months' servitude under the lesson yoke, in unhappy subjection to Teacher, whom he regarded as an unrelenting tyrant. He gave up the vagrant ways of vacation with a heavy heart.

The cheerful faces of the children of Monroe on their way to school on its opening day, give no hint of such sentiments. On the contrary they have had enough of idle loafing, and they are ready to accept the tasks of school for what they get out of it.

The reason is that education has been turned upside down during recent years. It approaches children from a new point of view. It makes them want to learn, by picturing the dreary future in prospect for the dance. It cuts out the tedious memory lessons of the past, it shows the close relation of school learning to daily needs, and it makes the boy who fails to get his lessons feel like a tail ender in the race of life.

School work becomes associated with interesting things which children do not want to miss. Thousands of schools have athletic teams, bands and orchestras, parties, dances, playgrounds. Not all schools can provide much facilities, but most of them somehow sugar coat the once bitter pill of education.

The teacher has ceased being a grinding taskmaster, and has become the friend whom a normal child will want to please. If some of these youngsters still won't try to learn, even after all these inducements are offered, who or what is to blame? It may be some physical defect which could be cured. It may be some fault of a home, that is ignorant or neglectful. If children fall behind, their parents would better ask if the lack of home discipline is not the real cause.

Interstate Oil Pact

The way has now been cleared for a test of the interstate compact as an effective instrument in the conservation of oil and natural gas production. Serious handicaps will have to be met, but if the device is only measurably successful, it should exert a potent influence on future regulatory policy.

Genesis of the movement was in the conference last February of the governors of eight western and southwestern states after the supreme court's decision denying federal authority over "hot oil" wells. The conference nearly ended in a stalemate because Oklahoma's governor wanted to limit production to consumption, while Texas' governor stood for elimination of waste only. The latter finally carried his point.

As originally presented for congressional ratification early in August, the compact was attached to the bill embodying the administration's new plan for regulation, designed to meet the court's objection. When it became apparent that the bill could not pass at the session just closed, the compact was approved by joint resolution. Each state agrees to provide heavy penalties for waste of gas or oil, and to deny violators access to commerce for their product.

Much depends, of course, upon how many of the oil producing states can be induced to join in the pact. If the legitimate oil interests are wise, they will do what they can to make adherence as nearly unanimous as possible. While skepticism was expressed in the congress that anything substantial could be accomplished, a fact not to be overlooked is that the six states that have already ratified produce 70 per cent of the annual crude oil output. Obviously, though, if non-conforming states, pursuing a short-sighted policy, seek to gain unfair competitive advantage by permitting wild-cat methods, they might wreck the program.

Here is an experiment that it is to the interest of every state to promote. The waste in oil and natural gas, if continued, means ultimately heavier costs for all and the hastened exhaustion of a great natural resource.

Frost And Leaves

Annually, when the reds and yellows begin to appear in the woodlands, we hear the comment, "Yes, it's beautiful; but just wait until after the first frost!" The old folk-tale concerning the part frost plays in the color changes of the leaves dies hard.

Those who have studied those changes, however, assure us that frost plays no part in the process. It is a matter of chemistry not yet fully understood. Throughout the spring the leaves are colored green by the presence of chlorophyll, a strange plant substance which converts carbon dioxide and water into food for the tree. When the season begins to wane, the chlorophyll slowly changes to another form, known as plastids. The plastids have a chemical coloring known as carotinoids, which react to sunlight and cooler temperatures. Some of them turn bright yellow, others turn red.

Another color factor lies in the amount of plant sugar trapped in the leaves when the branches cut off the sap veins in preparation for winter. This plant sugar reacts to chill nights and changes color, sometimes to red or purple.

Thus we get the brilliance of autumn not from the first frost but from the chemistry of the leaves themselves.

300 Miles An Hour

Not even the sensational story of the grounded liner Dixie serves to detract from the sheer breathlessness of Sir Malcolm Campbell's feat of sending his six-ton Bluebird across the salt flats of Utah at a speed slightly in excess of 300 miles an hour. The record-breaking dead is a veritable triumph of automotive engineering and human courage. It is unlikely to be surpassed for a long time to come.

To the average motorist who gets on edge when his speedometer approaches the 60-mile-an-hour mark, this speed of five miles a minute seems literally phenomenal. Even airplanes which attain this mark are regarded as extremely fast specimens of aeronautical travel.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

A GREAT AMERICAN

In the death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, America has lost two of her great men—one a philosopher, the other an aviator.

I never was lucky enough to meet Post, or even to see him.

But I know that he was one of the country's foremost airmen. His death was a national, if not an international calamity.

I knew Rogers for years. Through two national political conventions, I sat beside him; and I assure you that his remarks were more pointed, more true and more valuable than three-quarters of the speeches by politicians.

Few men loved life or lived better than did Rogers. Few travelers had been so far or seen as much.

After he had become known as a cowboy comedian, he joined the theatrical parade and became a rope thrower—an act without words, but one that was tremendously successful.

Then Gene Buck, who is a combination star-finder and master of the revels, decided that Rogers had much more comedy in him than any one had supposed. Gene took the rope away from him and made him a speaking star. From that time forth he became a theatrical light.

He was asked to speak on hundreds, perhaps thousands, of occasions.

Invariably he sized up his audiences, discovered what they thought they wanted, and then gave them something much better.

He even sang—a little—when there were other singers around him to subdue his tones. He told me once that he would rather sing than do anything else, but when he found that he couldn't get into the Metropolitan opera house as a performer he "sorta give it up." "An' mebbe I wasn't so good in them days."

In one of Oliver Wendell Holmes' poems are these lines:

"A few can touch the magic string
And noisy fame is proud to win them;
Alas for those who never sing
But die with all their music in them."

There were many magic strings that Will Rogers did touch, and by those he will be long remembered.

The cowboy "trick rider" from the southwest became the entertainer and, incidentally, the guide, philosopher and friend of a great nation.

He was a showman, and a great one, but never a show off. Everything he did on the stage was natural and effortless. He must have been an entertainer in the cradle.

Never think of this man only as a comedian. He was a great American, indigenous to the soil, and born with an understanding of men's hearts and inner feelings.

I have seen and heard many people of the stage, but never a greater one than he. Nor a man that in any way was like him.

It is my sincere belief that he should always be listed among the great Americans.

ARE THESE THINGS YOU?

Day will come back, and spring and rain,
Day with the sun's bright rays,
Night with its star-pierced skies,
All things you used to praise.

All things you used to love, these will Come back and I will say,
"He would have loved this rain, he would Have loved the sun this day."

Spring, with the lilacs and the soft
And shimmering of rain,
This I shall hold within my hand,
But not your hand again.

Strange that the things you loved,
That were of you a part,
Shall come again and I not hear
Your heart against my heart.

Strange that I shall walk alone
Through scenes you loved, and hear
Your voice, and know your dreams,
And never find you near.

I cannot help but think that this
Perhaps is more than true,
That day and night, and stars and rain
These things you loved, are you.

FOURNET STATES LONG GAVE CRY AS SHOT FIRED

May Force Attendance

Both Odom and Dr. Thomas B. Bird, parish coroner, have indicated belief that while they can compel attendance of the witnesses at the inquest, there is a question whether such witnesses can be compelled to testify if they do not choose to do so.

The district attorney's subpoena list included the names of Murphy Roden, Paul Voitier, Joe Bates, A. D. Coleman, George McQuiston, Joe Messina, J. P. Wooley, John Kirsch, Louis Heard and a Mr. Ratcliff, all described as "bodyguards or state police"; and a dozen citizens who were known to be nearby at the time of the affray.

In addition, the district attorney "invited" by letter the attendance of Justice John B. Fournet of the state supreme court, and Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer of Long share-the-wealth clubs.

Fournet, a leading Long lieutenant, has been credited in some accounts with grappling with Dr. Weiss and deflecting his aim when he shot the bullet into Long's abdomen.

Smith, eulogist at the Long funeral, has made some sensational speeches since the assassination, joining Earl Christenberry, the senator's secretafy, in charging that Dr. Weiss carried out a carefully-laid part in a murder conspiracy involving persons prominently connected with Long's opposition.

Both echoed the statements of Long on the floor of the senate last month that such a conspiracy was afoot.

Family Says No Plot

Members of Dr. Weiss' family, however, have emphatically stated they are prepared to answer any murder plot theory which might be raised at the inquest.

One of the bills Long was pushing through the legislature when shot would have juggled the judicial district of Judge B. H. Pavy, father-in-law of Dr. Weiss, in such a way as to threaten his continuation in office, but all members of his family said the bill had not caused them any special alarm.

Summing up the family's repeatedly asserted mystification over Dr. Weiss' actions, Judge Pavy commented: "It must have been an act of God."

Sunday crowds from this and adjoining states swarmed over the capitol grounds for a look at Long's grave, still guarded day and night by a detail of state police. Some brought flowers to replace the fast-withering field of blooms that blossomed around the tomb when he was buried last Thursday.

In New Orleans, the Rev. Gerald Smith, former orator, issued a call for a Huey Long memorial mass meeting to be held on Canal street, principal business thoroughfare, next Friday night. Smith said he, Gov. O. K. Allen and Justice John B. Fournet of the state supreme court would speak.

Virginia Hotel Has Slight Blaze Monday

Grease on or near the stove in the kitchen of Hotel Virginia caught fire Monday morning and for several minutes caused a lively blaze.

Members of the Monroe fire department, summoned to the scene, quickly subdued the flames with the use of chemicals.

Damage to the building will not be large, it was stated, and was confined to the ceiling above the stove and to some of the pipes of the steam heating plant.

KENTUCKY GIRL HELD IN SLAYING

Admits Shooting Escort For Making Improper Advances

OWENSBORO, Ky., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Charged with murder following her confession to Chief of Police R. P. Thornberry that she shot her escort when he made improper advances, Christine Lanham, 19, of Owensboro, was in jail here today awaiting examining trial tomorrow.

The body of the slain man, Ezra Boarman, 35, an oil field worker, was found in a lane northwest of here late Saturday night.

The girl's confession, Chief Thornberry said, came after her companion, Rose Stites, 16, implicated her in the shooting. The officer stated that he learned Miss Stites and Miss Lanham met Boarman and Wayne Richards, his brother-in-law, at a roadhouse and all got into Boarman's car for a ride.

Driving into a lane, Boarman parked the car, the girls said, and as he made advances at Miss Lanham, the police chief quoted her as saying, she snatched a pistol from the pocket of the car and shot him.

"Just say it was a hold-up and stick to it," the girls said Richards advised. He then notified Deputy Sheriff Simon Smith of the slaying, saying he and Boarman were held up by bandits and that his brother-in-law was shot while resisting them.

In another development involving the AAA, the Bookings institution issued a report telling farmers that "artificially high price levels" might "eventually react adversely to the producers themselves."

Both administration and Republican leaders prepared today to make tomorrow's observance of constitution day a forerunner of political battles to come. Secretary Roper and Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, were among those who will make addresses.

Youth Is Accused Of Attacking Young Girl

SUSTANVILLE, Calif., Sept. 16—(AP)—A youth who told newsmen he was the son of a well known writer was held in jail today to guard him from threatened danger after he was accused of attacking a 16-year-old girl.

Officers could not give an official and definite identification of the prisoner immediately.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Boshoff said the young man was brought here for safekeeping after 15 or 20 men gathered at the Westwood, Calif., jail and sought to have authorities permit the father of the girl to wreak personal vengeance upon him.

Boshoff reported the girl, Juanita Shepard, arrived at her home early Sunday morning and told her father the youth had hit her several times when she repulsed his advances and then had attacked her.

The father, whose full name was not learned, summoned officers, who arrested the young man at his quarters in a dormitory of the lumber company plant where he was employed.

Lassen county authorities, after the men appeared at the jail, decided to transfer the prisoner to Sustanville.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK.—The development of stainless steel, together with the rise in the price of gold, has played hob with the gold-leaf business.

Goldbeating is one of the few old crafts left in New York that are passed along in families for generations. There still are quite a few families engaged in it—mostly on Hudson street, in Greenwich Village, and over near Fourth avenue—but they're not as proud and prosperous as in the gilded days.

Repeal of prohibition has helped some, there being a demand for gold-lettered liquor signs. But there hasn't been a big job since the top of the American Radiator building was covered with $10,000 worth of the precious stuff. In idle moments, which are plentiful, goldbeaters glare hatefully at the great expanses of chromium on the Empire State building, which would have been a gold-leaf job if erected a decade earlier.

Skin Game

Most of the expense of gold leaf comes in the labor of thinning it out—to a thinness of about three or four one-millionths of an inch. A good beater gets abut 3,200 square feet of leaf from 12 ounces of gold. First it is melted with a secret alloy, then rolled very thin. The sheets are cut in squares, placed between layers of parchment, put on a granite block and walloped with a heavy hammer. The sheets keep spreading out, and every now and then the beating is stopped to cut them into smaller squares.

The final beatings are done with the gold between goldbeaters' skins—an extra expensive parchment obtained somewhere in the innards of oxen. The craftsmen work in closed, practically airtight rooms, and won't let anybody watch them. Atmospheric conditions have to be just right, and even then the thin sheets sometimes turn to powder.

Among my souvenirs is a book containing 24 sheets of gold leaf, one of many such tokens presented to reporters a few years ago by the late Daddy Browning during a soiree in his new real estate office. One room was done in gold, another was covered—walls and ceiling—with letters from little girls of 18 and 20 who wanted to be adopted.

Indoor Sports

With a chill in the evening air, this is a good time for a report on the progress of the sidewalk cafes which have been so widely hailed as harbingers of gracious, cosmopolitan living. Well, the fact is that they haven't been doing very well. Nobody on lower Fifth avenue—which is pretty clean—will admit failure, but in other sections the proprietors confess that al fresco drinking and dining was only a noble experiment.

Manhattan just isn't Paris, nor yet Vienna. After a time one finds it impossible to pretend that the dust in one's soup is freshly-ground pepper, or that the all-enveloping carbon monoxide is perfume from adjacent gardens. There's another important difference, too; much of the daytime leisure indulged by New Yorkers is strictly illicit. A fellow with a job would rather head for a dark corner in an air-cooled cocktail den than sit at a sidewalk table in full view of any passing boss, or wife, or creditor.

Hollywood Close-Ups

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Poor pictures are not made intentionally but they do not always "just happen."

One of the recent films fated to go on the tail-end of double feature programs—and to be none too welcome there—might have been good.

There is no telling about that, however. Seldom does anyone know beforehand how a picture will turn out, even if everything goes smoothly as planned. The point is that this one is "in the can" and irretrievably bad.

It may be that the picture would have failed even if none of these things had affected its making. First of all, it was the farewell picture of its producer, who was leaving the lot for greener fields.

Sang 'Silently' First

It was a picture that meant much to a young singing actress. Her songs were not ready in time. Ordinarily singers record their songs first and then are photographed "singing" them. This permits them to concentrate on how they look to the camera rather than on how they sound, and it is easier to "sing" for the camera to a recorded "playback" than to sing for the microphone while trying to synchronize the sound to the movement of already photographed lips.

Since her songs were not ready, they photographed her first. She had the music but no lyrics, and she had to hum instead of sing words. Later, when the lyrics were ready, she had to sing them just as she had hummed for the picture, refraining from injecting any personality into the performance because to match the picture it had to be just so. The songs probably will not be hits, nor will she be acclaimed for them.

Lead Exasperating

All this had to be done that way because the director was meeting a release date, set in advance by the company's heads when they were selling new season products in advance. The director could not help it, either, that in the midst of production he met with an accident which hampered his customarily vigorous work.

And then the leading man, with a high disdain for the unworthy material in which he was being paid to act, went about his task with that aloof condescension only a movie star can make so exasperating.

All in all, they expected nothing at the preview. And it was what they got.

Giants, Triumphant Over Cards, Start Series With Cubs

ANOTHER SERIOUS JOB IS FACED IN MEETING CHICAGO

Bruins Now Hold Lead Of Two Games Over Red Birds

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The celebrated hop from the frying pan into the fire couldn't be much worse than the one the Giants have to take from St. Louis to Chicago.

Triumphant in a great struggle which began with St. Louis in the lead and New York 3 1-2 games behind, the New Yorkers now face exactly the same sort of series against the Cubs. While the Giants were routing the Cards on their own field for the second time in a row, Chicago continued its brilliant winning streak to 12 straight victories by sweeping a four-game series with Brooklyn and now heads the parade by two games over St. Louis and 3 1-2 games over New York.

Bill Terry's wrecking crew apparently proved that its pennant aspirations still were sound when, after losing the first game to the Cards and Dizzy Dean, they came back to win three in a row, including two extra inning encounters. It was the second time they had conquered the Cardinals at a critical stage. In July they dropped momentarily from their lofty perch by losing two games to St. Louis but came back to regain it with four straight victories.

The Giants showed their strength again yesterday after two extra innings of work. They routed Dizzy Dean, who was making his first game handily, and hammered out a 7 to 3 triumph with a 16-hit attack that rocked three pitchers. Three singles in the first inning put them a run ahead and they added pairs of tallies in the third, when Hank Leiber hit a homer with Terry aboard, and in the fifth. Carl Hubbell pitched two-hit ball up to the sixth, when Joe Medwick hit for the circuit, then eased up and gave two runs in the eighth after New York had scored its last two.

The Cards had scant consolation in the fact that the attendance of 41,284 set a St. Louis record for a single regular-season game.

Four Brooklyn errors, plus Bill Lee's six-hit flinging made it easy for the Cubs to increase their lead with a 6 to 3 victory over the Dodgers.

Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh first baseman, equalled the National league endurance record of 618 games, established by Eddie Brown of Boston, when he played one inning in a 5 to 3 victory over the Phillies. He still trailed the American league "iron man" Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, who took part in game 1,640 of his continuous stretch and helped beat the league-leading Tigers 8 to 7.

The Yankee triumph only served to reduce Detroit's lead to 8 1-2 games two weeks before the close of the season. Johnny Murphy played the big role, pitched expertly after Vito Tamulis had been belted out, driving in the tying run in the seventh and scoring the winning counter.

Cleveland broke it's third-place deadlock with the Red Sox by pounding out two victories over Washington with a total of 35 hits. The scores were 16 to 4 and 6 to 3. Boston won only one game, trimming the Browns 9 to 5 with a six-run sixth inning rally after St. Louis had nicked Lefty Grove for five tallies in the first.

The White Sox and Athletics split a bargain bill, Chicago winning the opener 8 to 2 and Philadelphia the ten-inning afterpiece 7 to 5 on Pinky Higgins' home run. Cincinnati turned back the Braves twice, 1 to 0 in the opening pitching duel in which Paul Derringer and Ben Cantwell gave four hits each and 7 to 6 in a ninth-inning run in the second clash.

TULANE'S SQUAD IS STRONG ALONG PHASES OF PLAY

Will Be Fast, Brainy And Powerful Team This Season

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15.—Big men usually are silent men. Big Ted Cox, Tulane's head coach, standing six feet four and weighing 250 pounds, is one of them, and sports writers generally have to be content with a few grunts when it comes to discussing his team. But this year he gave voice:

"The old saying among coaches that the flowers that bloom in the spring wilt in the fall does not apply to this squad. So far the cream of the crop of the spring is looking better this fall than they did last spring. I am well pleased with the outlook."

For Cox this is fluent speech. If he says that much he must be bubbling over with enthusiasm for the 1935 Green Wave. And he has basis for optimism. If his sophomores settle down to a steady pace early in the season there is no reason why he should not stretch a bright light across the football sky.

He has a brilliant passing team, a fast running attack, two good kickers and weight and strength enough for a solid defense. The team has both speed and power and reserve. All it lacks is experience.

The pass, both forward and lateral, will be the main spring of the attack. But if the opposition should break down that, the team can quickly turn to a running attack and it necessary can punt out of danger.

The backfield holds three halfbacks who have mastered the technique. Barney Mintz, captain and last year's star, Dick Watson and Troy Odom, the last two sophomores hailing from the Cajun country of the famous Bill Banker and Don Zimmerman, can throw a football like a baseball, run like deer, kick like a mule and block like a wall. They weigh 180, 200 and 185 respectively and they have brains to go with the brawn.

They make the start of the pass. Mintz completed 13 out of 15 in scrimmage and the other two threw accurate bullet passes. To receive them are Fred Preisser, sophomore of New Orleans, and Hal Memtsas, junior of New Orleans, 175-pound ends who can snag a pass if it comes anywhere near striking distance. Then there is Roy Ary, 200-pound tackle from Stigler, Okla., who has the speed to get down field if necessary to shift him to end. Dick Page, the quarterback, can both throw and receive.

The quarterback position may be termed a weakness if there is one. Page is the only experienced quarter but Wiltz Ott, of Osyka, Miss., is developing behind Page.

All in all, it will be a fast, brainy, powerful team capable of threatening any team, even including the titantic Minnesota, piloted by Bernie Bierman, former chief of Ted Cox at Tulane, on the murderous schedule, which also includes Colgate, the devils in Red.

The home folks will see more football than ever before as all of the games will be played in New Orleans except Minnesota at Minneapolis.

The schedule:

September 18, V. M. I.; October 5, Auburn; October 12, Florida; October 19, Minnesota; October 26, Sewanee; November 2, Colgate; November 9, Georgia; November 16, Kentucky; November 23, Louisiana Normal; November 30, Louisiana State university.

Buccaneers, Exporters Meet In Deciding Game

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Galveston Buccaneers and the Beaumont Exporters traveled to Galveston today for the fifth and deciding game of their Texas league Shaughnessy play-off series, the winner of which will meet the Oklahoma City Indians for the league championship.

The Exporters carried the series to full length by winning a thrilling 11-inning, 6-5, game here yesterday.

The Bucs will depend on the capable right arm of Jim Moore, recruited from the Oklahoma semi-pro ranks five weeks ago, to bring them victory tonight.

Moore has had ample rest since he blanked the shippers, 2-0 in the second game. George Gill, the losing pitcher in that contest, likely will oppose Moore again.

The site for the final encounter was determined by the toss of a coin just before the start of yesterday's eleven-inning thriller at Beaumont.

JOE LOUIS STOCK SHOWS NEW RISE

Old 'Wise Heads' Declare Negro Fighter Great Heavyweight

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Joe Louis' stock had taken another rise today.

He pummeled his sparring partners yesterday as some wise old eyes looked on and they proclaimed him a great heavyweight.

One of the onlookers was Sam Langford, the grizzled old "Tar Baby" of better days. Sam can't see so well. One eye was permanently dimmed by a right hand punch of Fred Fulton and the other isn't so clear. But he saw enough of the panther-like bomber who keeps weaving in, to convince him that his race had produced another great one.

"He's just too much for Mr. Baer," said the broad-beamed Langford.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien was there too, but, although he praised Louis, he withheld a prediction as to the outcome of the Sept. 24 battle until he had seen Baer train.

"He has everything a fighter needs," said the former light heavyweight champion of the world. "He fights in the orthodox style we old timers used, but he has improved on some of us. I can see he has been well trained by Jack Blackburne, for he weaves and tosses his punches much as Jack did, and I fought Jack.

"I would like to see Louis have a little more speed afoot but he is a hard man to hit with a solid punch for he is always moving and counters beautifully. On style I would pick Louis but I will not make a selection until I have seen Baer. You never can tell what Baer will do, for he is unorthodox."

Paul Cavalier, Lou Flowers, Bob Moody and Roy Williams worked out with the bomber and were somewhat the worse for wear when their chores were over.

Dempsey Says Baer Must Improve To Beat Louis

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, always a rooter for Max Baer, is of the opinion that the former butcher boy is in shape to absorb plenty of punishment but that he would have to improve on his showing of yesterday if he would defeat Joe Louis.

Max, apparently in one of his periods of lassitude, boxed six rounds yesterday as Dempsey and others looked on. In contrast to his savage punching of the day before, however, Baer had little steam in his punches and seemed content to box with Paul Pross, Willie McGee, George Turner and Lou Scozza. Several thousands fans went away disappointed.

Early in his workout Baer was disturbed by the collapse of a stand holding approximately 400 persons in which several persons were hurt.

Fleeing from the awful roar, Dick and Doc made good use indeed of the athletic training which had hardened their muscles and expanded their lungs. But soon they slowed down, for each was troubled by the same doubt. "I didn't think we'd come this far," Dick frowned.

"It's beginning to look like we've missed the trail back to the railway," Dick agreed; "but you said it would be great to spend a night in here." "It would," Doc insisted, "but I don't want the train to leave us. You know that noise we heard sounded to me like a lion!"

"Why didn't you wait and see?" his cousin chided. "You said this morning on the train you'd like to see a real lion." "I didn't see you waiting," Doc shot back; "I never saw anyone run so fast in all my life." "I had to," the other boy replied, "to keep up with you!"

Not far away, at a slow trot, Numa, the lion, followed the scent that ever aroused hatred in his heart—the scent of man, his enemy! Numa was not ravenous, for he had feasted well the night before, but he thought it wise to mark down a fresh prey for the coming night!

V. F. W. GROUP IS OFF TO ORLEANS

Bugle Corps And Delegates Leave Here For National Convention

The Monroe delegation bound for New Orleans to attend the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign wars, left this city by bus and private cars early Monday morning. Most conspicuous of the group was the drum and bugle corps of the local Rodney J. Hobbs post, which has already won numerous contests in the past.

In addition to the drum and bugle corps, the official delegates from the post here were C. A. Hunt, commander, William Rodriguez, and William Rainer.

A. J. Willis, commander of the recently-organized Veterans of Foreign wars post at Rayville, and L. H. Himel, trustee of the post, made the trip with the delegates in the Rodney J. Hobbs post bus.

Much interest centers in the contest on Wednesday, when drum and bugle corps from all parts of the country will engage in the competition. Past performances of the local group lead their friends to anticipate that they will win additional laurels.

On Saturday a group of delegates from the auxiliary of the local post left Monroe for New Orleans to attend the convention. They included Mrs. H. L. Morrow, department president, Mrs. E. J. Lanham, president of the local unit, and Mrs. Georgia Kelly.

Work of removing the debris and derailed freight cars and oil tank cars at the scene of the accident was scheduled to continue Monday, and it was thought possible that other bodies would be removed.

Two Tell Of Wreck

Two transients on the train, who witnessed the derailment, said that at least 40 persons were on two oil tank cars which were derailed and declared it was hardly possible that many of them escaped death. A physician, who witnessed the burning of the cars, said that the heat was so intense, it was possible for an untold number to have been so cremated that not even a bone would remain when the fire cooled.

Although rescue workers said that the remains of at least nine persons were dug from the ruins, Dr. C. L. Mengis, parish coroner, said Monday that there had only been four bodies removed, which he had ordered buried. He said that he had given no order for bodies to be buried at the scene and did not believe this had been done.

The coroner, however, said that he had revisited the scene on being informed that an odor of burned flesh had been detected at a pile of pulp wood and that the wood would be removed sometime Monday afternoon. He said there was a possibility that another body would be discovered when this is done.

Skull Is Found

The coroner said that a skull found in the ruins could have been that of another man but that one of the corpses removed from the wreck had been decapitated.

None of the other victims of the derailment were identified.

The crash resulted from a "hotbox" on one of the cars. Railroad officials said the hotbox caused a journal, or an axle, to break.

At least fifteen freight cars and oil tank cars were derailed, five of them being totally destroyed by fire.

It was the second wreck of a freight train here in recent months. Another Illinois Central train was wrecked about a mile from the scene of the Saturday morning accident, sometime ago.

Griggs died without regaining consciousness. Both his parents and sister were at his bedside when he expired.

Injured Are Listed

Those who escaped death in the accident but who were injured were: James Bradford, 60, New Orleans, minor injury to right arm; J. C. Howell, 16, Corsicana, Texas, fracture of the left collar bone; J. M. Harrell, Corsicana, Texas, fractured left leg; Roger Johnson, 50, negro, Shreveport, broken left leg, burns on arm and right side; T. Magee, 22, negro, Epps, fractured right shoulder; Joseph Burchik, 36, Shreveport, amputated leg.

Railroad officials, busy with clearing the tracks and removing the wreckage, were unable to give an estimate of the damage but it was believed that it would run into many thousands of dollars.

There will be no investigation by the coroner as to the cause of the wreck, since the railroad cannot be held criminally libel, due to the fact that transients are trespassers on freight trains.

France Convinced War Is Inevitable

PARIS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—French authorities, convinced Italy could not be prevented from going to war with Ethiopia, said today they hoped to get Premier Mussolini to sign a pact guaranteeing Austria's independence before he plunged into the east African adventure.

Premier Pierre Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, were reported by authorities to have agreed during recent talks on collecting security in Europe to push a Danubian pact to the quickest possible conclusion.

A finished draft of the proposed pact was said to have been communicated by the French government to interested nations with an urgent request that it be accepted for the earliest possible signing.

French sources described the peace plan to be submitted by the five-power committee of the League of Nations council as a "last forlorn hope."

They outlined its probably proposals thus:

League recognition of Italy's need for expansion, ceding of the Ogaden territory to Italy by Emperor Haile Selassie, granting to Italy of the right to "peaceful penetration" of all territories occupied by tribes now recognizing the emperor's authority, and abandonment by Haile Selassie of certain conquered territories adjacent to the Italian colonies which would revert to their former rulers under an Italian protectorate.

Peace Is Objective

"The United States and Japan," the Japanese admiral said in an interview, "by maintaining the amicable relations which have existed between them for so long, will keep one-half of the world at peace, at least, by keeping peace in the Pacific. They will not be caught in the canny traps of other powers."

At 9:30 a.m., the hundreds of delegates, representing posts in every state department in the country, began consideration of proposals calling on the convention to go on record demanding immediate cash payment of the bonus, a congressional investigation of the recent Florida hurricane disaster which took a heavy toll of veterans quartered in relief work camps, and uniform disability pensions.

At the morning session the encampment will be presented with an ancient sword of the Samurai warriors by a Japanese delegation headed by Admiral Takeshita, on behalf of 3,000,000 Japanese war veterans.

Presentation of the sword will be followed by a brief ceremony at which Captaine de Vaisseau L. Sable, French naval attache at Washington, will present the decoration of the Legion of Honor of France to Albert Feugas, waiter in a New Orleans restaurant, who is one of four survivors of a French regiment in which he fought during the World war.

Hines Will Speak

The encampment during the day also will hear an address by General Frank T. Hines, administration of veterans' affairs, in which he will discuss veterans' benefits during the past year.

The six-day occupation of the city by the V. F. W. delegates, their families and friends started yesterday amid shrill trumpet screams and the "rat-atat-tat" of the numerous drum and bugle corps.

From morning until night the streets were thronged with veterans in their trench caps and decorations. Commander-in-chief James E. Van Zandt of Altoona, Pa., estimated the encampment would draw 25,000 persons before adjournment Friday.

Memorial services were conducted last night in the huge municipal auditorium and marked the official opening of the 36th encampment. The memorial prayer was spoken by Father Max J. Matz, national V. F. W. chaplain. The Rev. Joseph B. Head, past national chaplain, delivered the memorial address.

Keynote Sounded By Commander-In-Chief

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Commander-in-Chief James E. Van Zandt struck a keynote of peace at the opening session today of the 36th annual encampment of United States Veterans of Foreign wars, predicted early enactment of the soldiers' bonus and told his comrades "definite progress" had been made during the past year toward attainment of the organization's seven-point program.

The Altoona, Pa., veteran, who is serving his second term as national commander, reviewed the work of the past year, and briefly outlined plans for the future as thousands of delegates, members of their families and guests who jammed the huge municipal auditorium, roared their approval.

"During the past year," said Commander Van Zandt, "we have concentrated our efforts in support of a seven-point program. I am happy and proud to be able to report that within just the space of one year we have made definite progress toward the attainment of each of those seven points.

"The first three points of our program were properly devoted to the cause of veteran welfare and the dependents of those comrades who are either deceased or disabled. In regard to the subject of immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates, the so-called bonus question, it is hardly necessary at this moment to review our fight for this objective during the last session of congress.

Veto Is Deplored

"Naturally, we deplore the presidential veto which deprived us of this victory by the narrow margin of nine votes in the United States senate. Our organization has been the leader in the battle for the payment of this just obligation. We will continue to direct our energies toward that goal until this acknowledged debt to the veteran is wiped off the books.

"It is my opinion that the so-called bonus will be paid by the next session of congress, shortly after it convenes in January. In the meantime, as in the past, we stand ready, as always, to unite and cooperate with all other veteran groups in the effort to bring this long and bitter controversy to a successful climax."

The other four points of the program, the commander-in-chief said, deal with the welfare of the nation as a whole and its future security.

Want Adequate Army

He declared that while the organization "is emphatically opposed to war" as a means of settling international disputes, until world peace is definitely guaranteed and assured, "we are 100 per cent in support of an adequate national defense, with an army and navy second to none."

"But in the event of war," he said, "we insist that the responsibility of citizenship must fall upon the rich and poor alike—on organized wealth and industry, as well as the individual. There must be profit for none.

"We demand, and will fight for, a universal draft that will place organized wealth and industry on an equal basis with man power.

"In order to preserve the peace of the nation, and our present institutions of government, we demand—and we will fight for—the deportation of those aliens who refuse to obey the laws and statutes of this country and who come to the United States purely for the purpose of fomenting revolutions and chaos."

Commander Van Zandt said he was "immensely proud" of the organization's demand for "world peace through the immediate federal control of all munitions plants and a policy that will prevent international traffic in arms."

"We, as veterans," he concluded, "demand peace with all nations. We know that we reflect the wishes of the American people. We also feel that the people of other nations are equally opposed to the mere suggestion of armed conflict.

"The men who compose this organization know from experience the true meaning of war. Today, with thousands of our comrades still suffering from disabilities in government hospitals, we prefer peace and poverty, if necessary, rather than war and its hollow promises of glory and riches."

$1,000,000 Daily Paid To Veterans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, told the annual encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars here today that government benefit payment to veterans of all wars, as of July this year, amounted to slightly more than $1,000,000 per day.

The total beneficiaries, he said, numbered 845,429, the monthly payments to them totaling $31,386,445.

Reviewing Roosevelt administration legislation affecting veterans' pensions and disability benefits, Hines told the convention:

"In July, 1935, the number of deceased World war veterans on behalf of whom death benefits were being paid because of service connected disabilities was 100,584. The number of emergency officers who were in receipt of emergency officers retirement pay was 1,692; there were 35,414 veterans in receipt of benefits because of permanent and total non-service connected disabilities, and benefits were being paid to the dependents of 2,081 veterans under the provisions of public item No. 484, which provided for the payment of benefits to dependents under certain conditions of veterans who had been found to have a service-connected condition.

"The total number of World war veterans therefore to whom or on behalf of whom benefits were being paid in July, 1935, was 480,950. The total benefits paid during that month to such veterans or their dependents was more than $18,000,000.

"The total number of veterans to whom or on behalf of whom pensions were being paid in July, 1935, to veterans of the war of 1812, the Mexican war, the Civil war, the Spanish-American war, and of peace time service, was 364,479. The payment during the month of July, 1935, to this group was $12,829,925.

Payments To 845,429

"The total number of veterans therefore of all wars to whom or on behalf of whom benefits were being paid in July, 1935, was 845,429, the monthly payment being approximately $31,386,445, or slightly in excess of $1,000,000 per day, three-fifths of which represented payments to World war veterans or their dependents."

Hines, after presenting his figures, said :"You must conclude with me in the full realization that the president, with the accord of congress, is perpetuating that well-established principle, that adequate care and benefits shall be provided by the national government for those veterans who became disabled through injury or disease while defending the nation's honor or in time of war."

Referring to "liberalized legislation" for hospitalization of disabled veterans, the administrator said the number receiving this benefit totaled in July 1935, 52,950, as compared to a total of 49,022 in March, 1934, an increase of 3,928.

Increase Is Shown

"The increase in the number of veterans to be eligible for and entitled to such care has necessitated that consideration be given a determination as to whether our present facilities are adequate to meet our current and future needs," he said, pointing out that congressional and presidential approval had been given to a proposed $21,250,000 program for extension of facilities.

He said this authorization would make some 8,800 additional hospital and domicillary accommodations and beds available, and that of these 6,701 new accommodations would be available for mental cases. The 38 separate projects involved are located tentatively in 29 states.

Hines told the convention that data from the various state relief administrators showed an estimated 300,000 veterans were receiving public relief in June, but that "the several agencies of the government are making progress in providing employment opportunities for unemployed veterans."

Scientists say the common cold lasts only three or four days and gives immunity for three months. Longer illnesses are due to secondary infections.

pression of its belief in the authority of Nazi principles.

It empowered Goering, as leader of the reichstag, to summon it into session at will until a new set of bylaws, embodying "leadership" principles, has been evolved and adopted.

The tearing of the swastika from the prow of the German liner Bremen in New York last month and the action of Magistrate Louis Brodsky in dismissing five defendants in the case were considered by observers to have furnished, in a measure, direct cause for enactment of the laws.

One law, effective immediately, proclaimed the swastika as the reich's national and commercial flag. Black, white and red were set as the reich's colors, with der fuehrer to designate the form of the reich war flag and the reich official flag.

A second law defined reich citizens, dividing Germans into members of the state, the protection of which they may enjoy, and citizens—of German or similar blood—who would be allowed to serve the reich and its people.

The citizen would be given a reich citizen letter making him the bearer of citizen privileges. The date for enforcement of the citizenship law was not immediately fixed.

A third law, entitled "protection of blood and honor," became effective today. It provided that marriages contracted abroad were declared void.

Extra-matrimonial sexual relations between non-Aryans and Aryans were forbidden under pain of penitentiary punishment. Jews were forbidden to engage Aryan help under 45 years of age, with violations punishable by one year in jail and a fine, or both.

The law provided further that Jews may not fly the German flag, but only the blue and white Zionist emblem.

The impressario stepped before the curtain and charged, "the artists' union ruined this beautiful show. It is the rottenest thing in the world."

He started the pay line with the priests so they could get to the stage to open the third act.

"Bravos" at the end of the opera softened his resentment, but not for long—a delegate of the Stage Hands' union informed him the delay meant the stage hands would have to be paid for overtime.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The cotton market held close to previous final levels during the trading today, and going into the final hour showed but nominal recessions.

Continuing the down trend of the closing sessions of last week, the market was under some hedge pressure and professional selling based on the continuance of good weather conditions in the belt.

With only three weather stations reporting rain over the week-end and the rest of the belt stressing favorable weather for field work and for the growing plants in general, some offerings came into the market from professionals.

Light trade buying kept the recessions to small proportions, however, as October sold at 10.24, December at 10.30 and May at 10.45.

The volume of business was light during the day, with little important interest being shown on either side of the market.

Distant months extended their losses in the final minutes of trading but the recessions were held to small amounts and the market closed steady 1 to 7 points lower. Exports today were 13,073 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Some of the copper, amusement and specialty issues were in demand in today's stock market, but most of the recent leaders dropped under profit taking.

The fact that the trading volume dwindled on the decline was somewhat encouraging to bullish forces. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Profit takers stemmed the bullish stock market tide today and many of the recent leaders backed up fractions to a point or so.

A number of specialties bucked the trend, but these were unable to get very far in the face of declining tendencies displayed elsewhere in the list.

Brokerage analysts could find little in the news to help the bears and were inclined to view the reaction as a technical correction which had been anticipated for several days. After the first two hours the trading pace slowed. Grains milled about uneasily and cotton eased. Bonds were fairly steady. The guilder rallied, but other foreign exchanges were narrow.

Shares that managed to hold moderate advances included Warner Bros., Paramount second preferred, Loew's, International Nickel, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, United Aircraft, Boeing, American Can, Cuban-American Sugar preferred, National dairy and Consolidated Gas. Among the losers were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Auburn, Westinghouse, Western Union, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Phillips Petroleum. Only small variations were recorded by most of the rails and utilities.

Shipment for the copper group was aided when the domestic price for the metal was raised 1-2 cent to 9 cents a pound, following the lead set earlier by the export commodity.

The Sears Roebuck issues seemed to ignore the company's sales statement for the period of Aug. 14, to Sept. 10, showing a gain of 18.2 per cent over the same time last year.

The sagging of Montgomery Ward was attributed partly to the statement of President Avery that high taxes were seriously affecting the company's earnings.

Activity in various amusement issues reflected expanding box office business throughout the country. It was believed that profits of some of the moving picture chains would be the best in several years during the next few months.
